NEW GRACE IN THE GIRDLE.

THE SUMMER SASH RIBBONS BEAUTIFUL AND VARIED.

Effects Formerly Impossible to Obtain Now Simple Matters-Ribbons Wonderful in Design and Texture-Bows of Novel Arrangement-Pointed Styles. The season of the girdle and the sash is at hand. For that matter, all seasons have claimed the girdle as their own; but there's a certain subtle harmony between the sheer summer stuffs and floating sash ends, and the ribbon counters are busy places nowadays.

Ribbon manufacturers have certainly done their best to ensnare extravagant femininity. Never within memory were ribbons so beautiful and so varied. Never were they so exquisite in quality, so adaptable, so easily handled.

The softening that has entered into all silk textures has invaded the ribbon world and wrought such a revolution that effects impossible of attainment in the heavy stiff ribbons of cld days are now easy.

The bow of the period has taken on a grace that makes it altogether charming, and the clinging folded sash or girdle of Liberty satin, gauze, or silk without finish is a thing entirely different from the sash of stiff gros grain or satin which used to serve

It is hard to know where to begin in talking of the ribbons. The flowered designs are usually first to catch the eye, and every art of design, coloring and wearing has been brought to bear upon these wonderful gamut from dark to light. Ribbons in all one tone, but with shadow designs made by changes in the weaving instead of in the color, are popular; and the ombre or shaded ribbons are much in demand.

The flowered ribbons are, of course, practicable for use only with one tone frocks, but they are made into exquisite and other sheer frocks; and for the figured materials plain Liberty satin is first favorite, although the louisines and soft taffetas in

The modes in girdles and sashes have great variety within somewhat narrow scope, and a new trick of knot or loop or fold is the desire of the dressmaker's

The high folded girdle still has a place in fashion's favor, though not so nearly alone in the field as it was in the fall. Made upon the bodice or upon a separate boned and fitted lining, it fits closely and opens at the back, where the opening is hidden in some artful fashion. Sometimes the opening is at the left side of the front or is concealed under a long buckle immediately Many soft girdles widen at the back and slope down to the front, where the fulness is gathered into a jewelled buckle, a buckle covered with the silk, or, still more charming with an evening frock, a buckle cov-

There has been a decided tendency toward shaping the lower edge of the girdle into a deep point in front, and as this point has grown deeper and sharper greater care and skill have been necessary in the cutting and boning of the foundation and the adjusting of the ribbon or silk.

Very often two folded pieces of broad ered with tiny artificial flowers.

plain color are quite as correct.

esque, they are seldom so graceful as the folded girdle. The methods of finishing the high girdles at the back are legion, and the girl with deft fingers can give smartness and individuality to the simplest of summer lawns by a clever trick of girdle bow or finish. Here are sketched a number of good suggestions, all of which were features of French model frocks, and any one of which can easily be copied.

One of the simplest, yet prettiest, is a folded girdle of plain and flowered ribbon. The upper part is of pale green, the lower three-quarters of flowered tibbon with faint green and pink figures on a cream ground. At the back, instead of the usual bows, is a long lozenge shaped rosette which has a tightly shirred centre of pale green ribbon around which run five little frills of real valenciennes in two-inch width. Below the rosette fall two short ends of flowered ribbon.

A line of short, broad, outstanding loops set closely together down the back of the girdle, with short or long ends falling from the lowest loop, is another device for concealing the joining line.

Two round rosettes of ribbon, lace or velvet, with covered button or brilliant centres, are sometimes set diagonally at the back of the girdle or at the left side of the front, if the girdle fastens there. One of the cuts shows such a finish in two flat rosettes of black velvet with gold gauze centres bunched into button shape by tight shirring.

Another of the sketches illustrates a novel girdle formed of two separate pieces of wide liberty satin. These form the ordinary round folded girdle in front, but as they reach the back the two ribbons girdles for the batiste, lawn, mousseline separate.

Inset lace, motifs of flowered or hand silk framed in lace, applique trails of lace and various other ornamentations are introduced into the broad ribbon sashes, and one sash girdle knotted at the left front of a particularly modish French gown in white and black mousseline had long ends of ribbon flowered in a large design of blurred lines.

Down one side of the ribbon ran a band of three inch guipure lace bordered by black velvet baby ribbon, and the bottom of the ing the lines of the flower figure, and buttonholed in silk.

FOR EASTER GIFTS.

More Novelties and More Things of Heauty

Displayed This Year Than Ever. The custom of making gifts at Faster is coming to be more and more general in its beervance, and the things that may be purchased for this purpose are this year to be found in greater variety than ever. While the gifts made at Christmas may be of the most miscellaneous character, those made at Faster must all have about them something distinctive of the season, Among this year's Faster display the electric panorama eggs are entirely new. 1 hey are half as big as an ordinary watermelon. At the small end is a glass-covered peep nole. Inside the egg are a panoramic scene, and a little dry hattery to which are attached tiny electric lights. You touch a switch outside and flood the egg's interior with light and then you can see the panorama through the peephole. In one of these panoramic electric eggs is shown a scene in a Japanese dockyard, with warships in the dock. In others are shown country scenes and theatre interiors. Other smaller electric eggs contain, with the battery and key necessary for their operation, tiny electric scarf pins and other novelties. In one, for instance, there is a little rabbit's head whose eyes are made to shine when you turn on the battery.

Other surprise Easter eggs, not electric, contain within them presents in great variety.

Another Faster gift is a piece consisting of a little phaeton of fine basket work drawn by two geese hooked up tandem, and driven by the daintiest of doll figures, who holds the pink ribbon reins high, in the most approved fashion. The geese wear each a tall, conical hat, such as clowns wear, each having pink ribbons tied around wear, each having pink ribbons tied around the top, and they seem to be stepping very proudly, as they might well do with such a driver. Little chickens run beside them.

Another smaller willow phaeton is drawn by four little ducks driven tandem.

Among Easter gifts new this year is one in the form of a miniature locomotive with its tender. From the windows of the engine's cab on either side a goose looks out. Little chicks sit on the cowcatcher, and half a dozen little chicks sit on the top of some soft and fluffy material, with which the locomotive's tender is filled.

In reality the tender contains under the

In reality the tender contains under the risible surface upon which the little chicks visible surface upon which the little chicks rest, half a dozen other Easter gifts, to each one of which one of the little chicks is attached. You pull up the little chick and you find the gift attached to it. The locomotive is intended as a gift for a child who gives a little Easter party for six youthful guests, to each of whom one of the six gifts in the tender is given.

There are many Easter gifts of the same sort as the locomotive, that is to say, consort as the locomotive, that is to say, consort as the locomotive, that is to say, containing numerous other gifts for the youthful guests at children's Easter parties. Thus guests at children's Easter parties. Thus a basket contains eight tulips, to the stem of each of which a gift is attached.

Among things with visible gifts is an open umbrella of wicker work, which has attached to each of its bow tips a beautifully painted Easter egg, and there are Easter horns of plenty and that sort of thing.

Again among the Easter gifts containing gifts concealed—and these gifts may be of the most varied character—are automobiles of various sizes, some of these most correct in design and beautifully wrought in fine willow and elaborately adorned, and some containing great doll wrought in fine willow and elaborately adorned, and some containing great doll figures elaborately and beautifully attired. The gifts contained within one of these gorgeous autos are hidden from view. And so, taking it altogether, the display of Easter gifts and novelties is this year more elaborate, more beautiful and more attractive than ever.

SHE'S A METAL WORKER. New England Girl Enthusiastic Over the Trade She's Taken Up.

She has a little forge in one of the rooms of her home, and there this clever New semi-precious stones, turning out buckles, her. Inspiration for it came on a recent trip abroad when she became deeply in-terested in the exquisitely wrought metal ornaments she noticed in the shops of the dealers in antiques. It was the designs on these ornaments that first attracted her attention, because for a good many years she had been interested in the study of design and had carried out many original tomers know they are getting something positively unique."

"Does the work take strength?"

"Yes, and patience. Cat That Summoned Mald to Open Door

From the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph. A wonderful eat attracted the attention of every one who yesterday passed up or down Eighth street on the west side between Locust Eighth street on the west side between Locust and Spruce. Pussy was pure white. She was standing upon the step railing of a house which was just high enough to enable her to reach the electric button with her paw. She manipulated this so vigorously that the door was soon opened by a servant, who picked pussy up, took her in her arms, entered the house and closed the door. It was the sentiment of all who witnessed the trick that Maria, or whatever her name might be, was a bright cat.

SLEEP CURE FOR NERVOUS ILLS LONDON HAS TAKEN TO A NEW TREATMENT FAD.

Sleep for a Week or Two Weeks With Occasional Waking Moments for Nourishment-It Can Be Done and Is Only a New Form of a Remedy as Old as Tiredness.

Sleep is being recognized at last as a cure. For nervous troubles it is highly recommended, and in London patients are encouraged to sleep for weeks at a time, with waking moments for eating and drinking. Neurasthenia, epilepsy and dipsomants have responded very readily to the treatment, and some marvellous cures are related at one of the largest of the sleep cure establishments. A Swedish doctor is the inventor of the cure, and the patient taking his treatment is obliged to put himself completely in the hands of the physician, who cllows no devistion from the contract. Undoubtedly this is the secret of the success of his Sleep has long been recognized as a mighty good thing for nervous ills, but nervous patients are, as a rule, most opposed to the method. Nervous energy will not allow the worn-out woman of society, or the tired ment I worker, to relax sufficiently to remain quiet in body or mind; and the sleep cure is in reality a compulsory treatment. The main difficulty which doctors meet in their treatment of nerve troubles is the in their treatment of nerve troubles is the refusal of the patient to leave the surrounding causes of the excitable condition. The brain-fagged merchant cannot expect to find relief from insomnia and its attendant ills if he remains within sound of the telephone bell and the ticker.

In cities where the roises of street cars, elevate, trairs, ambulances and fire erglines are corstart a rerve cure is airs at impossible. For this reason rations a first impossible. For this reason rations a first impossible. For this reason rations a first impossible of the courtry, where their ears will not be assailed by a constant din.

But even the refuser circumstances courtry, where their ears will not be assailed by a constant din.

But even the enthese circumstances sleep is often impossible, and the crugs reserved to are in most cases worse than the cure. Frequently the very simplest and most old fashioned remely proves effectual. Massage is now recognized as a valuable aid in the cure of insomnia, and when taken with light gymnasio exercises and cold showers very obstinate cases are cured.

"The sleep fad is one form of the rest cure," said a physician who advocates the cold water cure for nervous diseases. "The principal difficulty in dealing with trot blest of this sert is encountered in the minu of the patient, which dwells constantly on his cornition.

condition.
"The various remedies that prove effi-cacious in so many instances do so not so much on account of their inherent virtues much on account of their inherent virtues as from the fact that they remove the mental strain. The sleep cure leaves the rain unconscious for such a long period that it has time to rest and he refreshed.

"In the same way an ocean voyage often proves a scative. A day or two out from land, and the complete difference in scene and support the sleep that it is not the same way an ocean way and the same state. and surrouncings takes the sick mind from its own ailment. It is the same principle that drives away the toothache at the

"Many of the women who make Lenten retreats take the rest cure in the works during which they are inside convent walls. The way of life is changed, the hours for rising and going to bed are different. Even rising and going to bed are different. Even the meals are an entire change of programme. This is all restful. Routine is the evil that nourishes and encourages nerve troubles.

"Women are especially susceptible to the habit of living in an accustomed rut every day of the year the same. They frequently boast that they always get up at the same hour and go to bed at the same time. They even eat the same colors, and travel over the same roads.

"When women patients come to me with incipient nervous troubles evidenced by their symptoms I always prescribe a change in their habits. If they are of the busy, hustling sort in society or in their domestic in their habits. If they are of the busy, hustling sort in society or in their domestic affairs I prescribe the rest cure.

"One rule which always seems to the nervous women a dreadful waste of time is to spend one day every one or two weeks in bed. This is a mild form of sleep cure. A patient whose nerves are tired may keep to the ardless routing of warry, depressing A patient whose nerves are tired may keep up the endless routine of worry, depressing thought and looking forward to ills that may never occur in her waking moments, but in a darkened room with sounds and visitors and letters and newspapers barred she will drop asleep and will be amazed, and perhaps shocked, to find that it is quite possible for her to sleep for forty-eight hours—with occasional wakings for a cup of milk or of louillon.

"Occasionally we find persons who ad-of milk or of touillon.

"Occasionally we find persons who advance the theory that people sleep too much, and that it is possible to do with three or four hours' sleep in twenty-four. It is true people can keep this up for some time, but even though they begin with thoroughly sound nerves and good physical condition it can only last for a certain time.

sical condition it can only last for a certain time.

"This is the sort of thing that fills our sanitariums and asylums. The average person eats too much and sleeps tco little. Women are the worst offenders. A great many of them seem to mistake hysterical nervousness that almost approaches insanity for vivacity. It has become the fashion to be extremely 'lively.' A quiet woman has no show, and this is what causes so many woman to run to drugs and stimulants as a spur."

WHEN THE MAID IS OUT.

Let the Guests Cook the Supper, Says Young Matron-They'll Like It.

"We just let our friends cook their own supper on Sundays when the maid's out.' said the young married woman. "I have found out that men just love to cook, and I honestly think they know a good deal more about it than women "One man we know makes every delicious kind of omelette you could possibly dream of, and a great many kinds you couldn't dream of, for you haven't been to all the restaurants and hotels that he has. You see, he married late in life and his long series of bachelor years perfected his knowledge of omelette making.

"He knows how to make ovster cocktails, which is more than most amateur cooks know. He is going to make some next Sunday. Here's the list of the things I'm to have on hand.
"When I saw that my idea was going to prove a success, I bought some cheap aprons for the women—and the men. The men's are regular butchers' aprons! I have all the aprons in a nice pile on the kitchen table when my guests enter. We put them on first thing.

"As hostess I become kitchen maid. ]

"As hostess I become kitchen maid. I keep an eye on everything that is going on. I put away the provisions the moment they are not needed any longer, and I keep the dishes washed up as they are used in the cooking. By being constantly occupied in this way I keep my small kitchen free from confusion and my guests' tempers from being ruffled.

"After supper the women help me clear the table. We banish the men from this. I leave the kitchen neat, with the dishes piled together ready to be washed. It is Sunday, and I want to make as little work as possible for the maid.

"The maid grumbled a little at first, just because it is in the maid code to grumble at anything unusual, but I dispelled the last remnant of her ill nature by telling her after the first evening that she could go out every Sunday instead of on alternate ones.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

"One thing I likes bout Satan," said the old colored brother, "en dat is he ain't never discouraged! Run him out er one town, en de fust news you hear is dat he done invested in real es-tate in de next settlement! He ex active exa Georgia nigger runnin' ten yards ahead er de High Sheriff

Beautiful Hair Goods

ich as cannot be found elsewhere, in fine quality, superior workmanship and novel designs. The assortment is too large "EVERYTHING FOR THE HAIR."

LADIES' HAIRDRESSING. by artists of great ability; my methods of shampooing, singeing, clipping and hair coloring to any desired shade assure your entire satisfaction.

BORAXOLOG

We live in a world of microbes. There's never any telling when they will break in and steal your health certificate. There's a way to make your house burglar proof against microbes—use BORAX. Use it in every cleansing process, from the kitchen to the bath-room. Borax is not only a cleanser, but an antiseptic. To add a little Borax to the bath water is to get the most refreshing and cleansing bath imaginable. To put Borax in the wash is not only to make the clothes clean and white, but sweet and pure. Imitations are worthless and injurious. Get pure BORAX.

20-MULE-TEAM BRAND.

For sale at grocery and drug stores everywhere. 4, ½ and 1 lb. packages.

Send a stamp for our wonderful little book. "MODERN MIRACLES." Pacific Coast Borax Co., New York, Chicago. San Francisco.

Superstitions and Warts.

TRY EACH ONE of the Hundred and Seven I Foolish Superstitions about taking off WARTS, then come to me, and I will really take them off. Simple when you KNOW HOW.

If you are annoyed and embarrassed by the following or any other Blemishes, let me tell you FREE how to be rid of them : FRECKLES BIRTH MARKS ECZEMA BARBERS' ITCH

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR
BLACKHEADS

BLACKHEADS

BLOTCHES

BLOTCHES LIVER SPOTS BLACKHEADS WENS WARTS MOLES Write to-day or come and see

JOHN H. WOODBURY D. I. TWENTY-TWO WEST TWENTY-THIRD STREET, NEW YORK. Also, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Washington.

CARRIES HIS OWN BED CLOTHES. The Odd Request Made by a Traveller at a Louisville Hotel.

From the Louisville Herald "A room, plase, with bath and without bed clothes," said Harrison Grant Jackbed clothes, said Harrison Grant Jackson as he walked into the office of the Willard Hotel hast night.

"I beg your pardon, sir. I don't quite understand," said Clerk Claude Brown.

"Well, my proposition is simple enough. Give me a room with bath and without sheets or feather bed." Me. Jackson is a tall, thin, antiquated genleman of many years. He looks strange, and is strange.

The reason for his peculiar desires in the way of rooms and trappings is easily ex-plained. In his own words, Mr. Jackson tells his story: "Fourteen years ago I wrapped myself

"Fourteen years ago I wrapped myself up in the dirty covers of a bed in a little town in Tennessee. Tired and sleepy, I soon began to doze, but my slumbers were doomed to be neither long nor penceful, for presently I heard something moving about in the feather bed on which I was sleeping. It was a mouse. In my anger I ripped open the whole bed stuff and found a whole bunch of mice.

"I had to stay in that town two weeks. I was distressed, and in my woe I went out and bought a feather bed, a lot of sheets and pillows. From that day to this I have carried those bed clothes with me. I carry big trunks, and in the bottom of one of these trunks, I tuck away my bed clothes when I ravelling. When I retire I know just what I am wrapping around me. Say, do you know that's a great luxury?"

Short Skirts to Drive Out Big Hats. From the Drapers' Record.

From the Drapers' Record.

The big hat craze is at present much discussed among millinery people. The streets abound, in "shocking examples" of the "right" hat on the wrong people, and the question may well be asked, how long will it last? I believe that the present season will see some reaction against very large hats, and the year will see them at least confined to their proper province as the prescriptive right of the tall woman. But I shall expect to see the big hat tide ebb further than that. By all that is reasonable and tastfeul, the short skirt should do much to drive out the big hat.

BEAUTIFY YOUR FACE WITH OXZYN BALM

Begin using Oxzyn Balm to-day. Within a week you will see a decided improvement. Within a month your friends will be complimenting you on your beautiful complexion.

Ozzyn Balm removes all pimples, blackheads, biotches, freekies, wrinkles, &c., and makes the skin soft, smooth and velvely.

Physicians and beauty experis everywhere have acknowledged for the past twenty years that Oxzyn Balm was the best complexion preparation. Maude Harrison, Christie MacDonald, Cora Tanner, Blanche Walsh and hundreds of other famous and beautiful women. Refuse all substitutes. Get the best, Genuine Oxzyn Balm, and get it to-day.

Price, 23c., 50c. and $1.69 a jar, at department stores and druggists, or we send it pasiace paid or receipt of the price. Money refunded if it is not prepared to the price. Money refunded if it is not until the pasiace paid or receipt of the price. Money refunded if it is not until the pasiace paid or receipt of the price. Money refunded if it is not until the pasiace paid or receipt of the price. Money refunded if it is not until the pasiace paid or receipt of the price. Money refunded if it is not until the pasiace paid or receipt of the price.

UXZYN CHEMICAL CO., 878 Breadway, New York. War Nurses Always Desirons of Field

From the Philadelphia Record.

When Dr. Auita McGee left, last week, for the scene of the Russian-Japanese War with her corps of trained nurses, she took with her five young women from Philadelphia, all of whom had seen active hospital service in the Cuban war. Just before they left Broad Street Station one of them said:

"Any nurse who has ever seen actual warfare wants to get another taste of it, seems to get into her blood. There is nothing in the world, like the feeling of exaitation that it inspires. It may be a bit of savagery that lingers in the blood from prehistoric times, but actually, when I came back from Cuba I longed for another war. It's much the same feeling that I believe a high-spirited cavalry horse has who has once smelled the smoke of battle. The exhibitation remains in the system. I just can't tell you how glad. I am that I am going to nurse the sick and wounded victims of war." From the Philadelphia Record.

Imitation the Sincerest Flattery

Cheaply made imitations of obsolete forms c. Singer sewing-machines are offered by merchandise dealers to deceive an unwary public. SINGER SEWING-MACHINES ARE NEVER

SOLD TO DEALERS.

They go directly from maker to user, and can entry as estained from the Company's employees.

woven in flower designs, and there are won derful ribbons with raised flowers in velvet on a ground of gauze or satin, the velvet being of the chiffon texture and detracting not at all from the softness of the ribbon Gold and silver threads are woven into

Faint blurred flower sprays in faded hues, pompadour bouquets, Dresden sprigs, trailing vines and flowers, great single blossoms-all these are to be had upon backgrounds of soft lustrous white or of some light tint. Every imaginable coloring is offered, almost every well known flower has been employed by the designers,

Satin, louisine, taffeta, gauze are all though roses, big and little, are first.

many of the ribbons, and there are gold and sitver gauzes embroidered in thick raised flower designs or interwoven with the raised velvet designs already mentioned. Liberty satins or taffetas in one tone have tiny gold or silver figures embroidered upon them at wide intervals-dets, bow knots, small garlands, leaves, &c. There centred ribbons with flowered, striped or Shadow ribbons have foliage or flower designs entirely covering the ground, and all in shades of one color, running the buttons, &c. but, though sometimes pictur-ribbon, wide at the back, are drawn down snugly to join in a bias seam up the middle of the lower point, and inside of these V-shaped folds another width of ribbon is drawn in folds to make the upper part of

Since the point has lengthened, the upper severe in line than the softly folded ribben are flowered gauze ribbons with plain gauze, satin or velvet borders, and plain and often made of piece silk or of material like that of the frock with which the girdle is to be worn These shaped plain girdles are trimmed in various ways, with braiding, lace, tiny

One is drawn upward to a point rather high, the other follows the waist line, point ing downward slightly at the middle. Each point is finished by a stiff little bow formed of double loops without ends, and the four cornered opening left between the ribbons is filled in by fine shirred tucking of mousseline in the shade of the ribbon. Under this tucking is, of course, the boned foundation of soft silk which holds all in place.

the waist line, and free ends below this Or possibly the two long ends may be caught up in double or triple loops here half or three-quarters of their length.

are apt to become desperately stringy, as are all chiffon and mousseline sashes.

on the girdle, another rosette holding the ribbons about six or eight inches below and there at irregular intervals throughout Soft chiffon girdles laid in fine plaits on a silk foundation around the waist and finished with a rosette at the back and with two long sash ends which are bunched into rosettes several times in their length, are modish but not particularly attractive and

England girl works away with metal and buttons and odd dress ornaments that are the envy of all who cannot afford to buy

The fad is a comparatively new one with of design and had carried out many original ideas in embroidery.

When she got home she bought a forge and tools and began work. Her small forge blazes away day after day and her enthusiasm keeps blazing away too.

The fad is now no longer really a fad, for she takes orders for her work and has established a business of such proportions that she is justified in believing that she can soon take another trip abroad to study. She has made buckles her specialty.

"I was fortunate enough," she explained to a friend, "to get my trade started just when the craze for fancy buttons was so violent. My friends are all crazy for the violent. My friends are all crazy for the ones I make because I make them to go with the gown and I study the wearer's individuality. This old gilt set with garnets was made to go with a beautiful deep red velvet cloak.

"Individualism in dress is all the go now.
That is why I have such a market for my buttons and dress ornaments. My ous-